

LOVE MOVES THE WORLD. TS ONE OF THE MOST POWERFUL FORCES WE ENCOUNTER IN LIFE WHAT WOULD LIFE BE WITHOUT LOVE?

I've met Mindy and Jared when they were looking for a photographer for their engagement photoshooting in Split a few years ago. They really loved the photos, so a year later, they proposed to me to be their wedding photographer in Chicago.

I got to Chicago 3 days before the wedding to explore the city and to try everithyng what the city offers, ok, mostly for their famous deep dish pizza:).
The first day in Chicago I've rented a bike and after a few blocks, I've felt it is quite colder outside than it seems, so I can say the city lives up to its nickname
"Windy City", the wind was blowing and i was forcet to buy a jacket.

The reason why I decided to tour the city on a bike and on foot was to find the most suitable locations for Mindy and Jared's wedding photo session. But, when the day came, it was raining so we did the shooting under the roof at the train station, in only 15 minutes. Nevertheless, the photos are beautiful (you can see for yourself when you scroll a bit further down), since I've managed to make the most of this short time and location. The bride and groom were getting ready in the Westin hotel with the bridesmaids and groomsmen. Their parents also came to the hotel, so I took the family photos there. When everyone was ready, it stopped raining for a while (Lucky us!), so I did a shooting in front of the hotel with Mindy and her bridesmaids and Jared an his groomsmen.

The wedding itself was a beautiful mixture of modernity and tradition, and the venue, gallery 1028, was a perfect fit with its "industrial style meets natural elements" vibe. The ceremony and the party was held at the same space and I was overwhelmed by how fast the organizers, Olive Fine Weddings and Events, turned the space setting from the ceremonial to the dinner party setting. Mindy and her family are Sri Lankan by origin, so there were traditional Sri Lankan dancers and the breaking of a coconut in half (it is believed that breaking a coconut blesses the newlyweds with children), which really gave this romantic modern American wedding a traditional and yet exotic feeling.

I am glad i met those beautyful people and had the opportunity to be a photographer on the wedding.
